

dasein 'being there' or "presence" - "existence". but not just: it is a fundamental concept in the existential philosophy of martin heidegger. he uses the expression "dasein" to refer to the experience of being that is peculiar to human beings. It means "to care".

menstrual blood

transgression violation of a law, a movement towards the limit, where there is no longer interpretation. (georges bataille)

nose blood of transgression mascarade an alienated or false version of femininity arising from the woman's awareness of the man's desire for her to be his other, the masquerade permits woman to experience desire not in her own right but as the man's desire situates her. (luce irigaray)

dry blood of anxiety

systole period of contraction of the ventricles of the heart.

blood of masochistic performance (mascarade) diastole dilatation of the heart during which chambers are filling with blood.

blood as an evidence of jouissance glacier is a persistent body of dense ice. and nothing more.

abjection "the state of being cast off." subjective horror, breakdown in the distinction between what is self and what is Other. The place of the abject is where meaning collapses, the place where i am not. (julia kristeva)

blood of misunderstandings hemorrhage blood escaping from the circulatory system - bleeding.

blood of unbearable moments jouissance transgressive, excessive kind of pleasure. attempt to transgress the prohibitions imposed on one enjoyment, to go beyond the pleasure principle. (jacques lacan)

ent-arn2-1.xx.fbcd
n.net/v/t1.09/248
99687_9639313570
78530_449456928

syntax error between genders.

ritual blood